About Matuku

East Takaka is the home of Matuku Funerals. Located at the "Caretaker's Cottage," at the front of the Dairy property. The farm has been in family care for over 100 years, and is a place of beauty and peace. Matuku was named for the Manson family in the 1960s.

Matuku Funerals started serving the Golden Bay Community in January 2018, and is an established and trusted provider of funeral services.

Legend has it, that hearing the loud, booming cry of the matuku (bittern) can help us to express grief. We are honoured to be of service to Golden Bay people, on both sides of the Takaka hill.

Natural Care

In the past, it was routine in New Zealand to embalm. We believe that there are occasions where embalming is necessary, but that those occasions are relatively rare if refrigeration is available. At Matuku Funerals, we offer the choice of keeping your deceased loved one in the family home, using special ice packs, or keeping the person at Matuku Funerals, in our purpose-built, secure, monitored cool room. We have found these methods to be both safe and effective.

- Environmentally safe, no chemicals
- Open or closed coffin funerals, and viewings
- Home viewing the night before the funeral
- Compassionate body care for the deceased
- It is possible to assist with your loved one's care, as much or as little involvement as you would like.
- In many situations, no need to leave Golden Bay
- If necessary, we arrange for a trusted Nelson embalmer to assist us with your loved one's care.
